- Intensive Care Unit
This Rider pays $500, $750 or $1,000 per day, depending on the level selected, for the first 7 days of Hospital Confinement when the Insured Person is confined in an Intensive Care Unit and charged for a room. This Rider pays $800, $1,200 or $1,600 per day, depending on the level selected, for days 8-15. This benefit and the Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit Benefit are together limited to a combined maximum of 15 days per Period of Hospital Confinement.
- Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit
This Rider pays $200, $300 or $400 per day, depending on the level selected, for each day of Hospital Confinement when the Insured Person is confined in a Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit and charged for a room. This benefit and the Intensive Care Unit Benefit are together limited to a combined maximum of 15 days per Period of Hospital Confinement. This benefit is not paid for the same day that an Intensive Care Benefit is paid. This benefit is not paid for transplants involving mechanical or animal organs and is limited to one transplant procedure per 180-day period.
- Ambulance
This Rider pays a benefit when an Insured Person requires ambulance transportation to a Hospital and is confined in an Intensive Care Unit or a Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit. Actual charges up to $250 for transportation by ground ambulance or up to $2,000 for air ambulance transportation are paid. This benefit is limited to two trips per Period of Hospital Confinement. A licensed ambulance company must provide the service.

DEFINITIONS (Hospital Intensive Care Rider)

Hospital Confinement

Hospital Confinement is a stay of an Insured Person confined to a bed in a Hospital for which a room charge is made that starts while this Rider is in force. The Hospital Confinement must be on the advice of a Physician and be Medically Necessary. If the confinement follows a previously covered Hospital Confinement, it is deemed a continuation of the first confinement unless: (1) the later confinement is the result of an entirely different Sickness or injury; or (2) the confinements are separated by 30 or more days.

Intensive Care Unit

An Intensive Care Unit is a specially designed facility of the Hospital that:

- Provides the highest level of medical care and is restricted to those patients who are critically ill or injured.
- Is separate and apart from the surgical recovery rooms, beds and wards customarily used for patient confinement.
- Is permanently equipped with special lifesaving equipment for the care of the critically ill or injured.
- Is under constant and continual supervision by nursing staff assigned exclusively to the Intensive Care Unit on a full-time basis.
- Meets any jurisdictional licensing requirements for Intensive Care Units and is listed in the current edition of the American Hospital Association Guide or is eligible to be listed as an Intensive Care Unit, a Cardiac Care Unit or an Infant (Neonatal) Intensive Care Unit.

Intensive Care Units do not include surgical recovery rooms, privately monitored rooms, observation units, labor or delivery rooms, step-down units, Sub-Acute Intensive Care Units or any facilities that do not meet all of the requirements listed above.

Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit

A Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit is a specially designed facility of the Hospital that:

- Provides less than the highest level of medical care but a higher level of care than rooms, beds and wards customarily used for patient confinement.
 - Is separate and apart from the surgical recovery room and rooms, beds and wards customarily used for patient confinement.
 - Is permanently equipped with special monitoring equipment for the care of the seriously ill or injured.
 - Is under constant and continual supervision by nursing staff assigned exclusively to the Sub-Acute Intensive Care Unit on a full-time basis.
 - Meets any jurisdictional licensing requirements for Sub-Acute Intensive Care Units.
